St. Paul's Hispanic Worship, Fellowship UMC, Muscatine

Worship is at the center of the hospitality ministries of Fellowship United Methodist Church in Muscatine. The St. Paul's Hispanic worship service is one of five offered at three sites by the congregation.

The Musserville Worship Center, located in the heart of Muscatine's Spanish-speaking neighborhood, hosts the bilingual service. Approximately 17% of households in Muscatine speak Spanish as their primary language.

Under the leadership of Edgar Solis, associate pastor for Hispanic ministry and a native of Mexico, the congregation has begun producing 30-minute programs in Spanish for local cable television. Further expansion of this and other outreach is being explored in Columbus Junction, West Liberty, Davenport, and Iowa City due to the large concentration of Latinos in these areas.

St. Paul's Hispanic Ministry, or "San Pablo" as it is known in Spanish, recently celebrated its 30th anniversary. Thanks to the support of United Methodist congregations in Iowa through apportionments, Fellowship UMC hopes to continue this Latino outreach for many years to come.
