

THANK YOU NOTES

Stories of Connectional Giving

www.iaumc.org/tyn

Northwest District Youth Rally

Young leaders are being nurtured in the Northwest District with the support of apportion contributions from local churches across Iowa.

The Sheldon United Methodist Church hosted the district youth rally on March 20. Ninety-five middle and high school students came from 19 congregations accompanied by 35 adults, including 11 pastors.

The young people enjoyed fun, food (pizza!), and friends, old and new. They also learned the basics about Jesus and Christian faith.

The Sheldon UMC Praise Team led singing with the help of Will George,

the youth director. The Rev. David and Gayle Williamson used magic tricks, music, and puppets as teaching tools to make learning more exciting. Their presentation was followed by small group discussion led by pastors and youth leaders.

The event ended with closing worship led by the District Superintendent, Bernie Colorado. About a dozen people received Jesus as Lord and Savior that day. One youth gave a testimony on how God's presence had supported her through difficult circumstances in her life.

All of the churches represented were given a board game for their youth group as a remembrance of the day.

THANK YOU NOTES

Stories of Connectional Giving

www.iaumc.org/tyn

Northwest District Youth Rally

Young leaders are being nurtured in the Northwest District with the support of apportion contributions from local churches across Iowa.

The Sheldon United Methodist Church hosted the district youth rally on March 20. Ninety-five middle and high school students came from 19 congregations accompanied by 35 adults, including 11 pastors.

The young people enjoyed fun, food (pizza!), and friends, old and new. They also learned the basics about Jesus and Christian faith.

The Sheldon UMC Praise Team led singing with the help of Will George,

the youth director. The Rev. David and Gayle Williamson used magic tricks, music, and puppets as teaching tools to make learning more exciting. Their presentation was followed by small group discussion led by pastors and youth leaders.

The event ended with closing worship led by the District Superintendent, Bernie Colorado. About a dozen people received Jesus as Lord and Savior that day. One youth gave a testimony on how God's presence had supported her through difficult circumstances in her life.

All of the churches represented were given a board game for their youth group as a remembrance of the day.

