D2(4)c BOGM Standing Committee on Mission Education

Membership

The membership of the standing committee consists of the District Mission Secretaries and others, including the Conference Volunteers in Mission Coordinator, Mission Personnel Committee Chairperson, Iowa Nigeria Standing Committee Chairperson, World Hunger Education Coordinator and Refugee/Immigration Coordinator. The Chair is the Conference Secretary of Global Ministries.

Primary Task

The primary task of the committee is promoting support of mission by the local churches of the Iowa Conference locally, conference wide, and world-wide. This includes the Advance Special projects of the General Board of Global Ministries, missionaries, and the Iowa Conference Advance Special Projects.

Preparation

Each District Mission Secretary must look for and attend educational opportunities including conferences and workshops as appropriate to promote and support the Iowa Conference and General Church ministries. Ongoing information about missionaries and projects is available from the General Board of Global Ministries, primarily from their website and weekly updates. An important resource is the printed Advance magazine. The primary resource for mission projects in Iowa is the on-line Rainbow Covenant book. This is also the basis for the Rainbow Covenant certificate program, along with a set of on line explanatory Notes.

Responsibilities

District Mission Secretaries are responsible for being in touch with the local churches of their district to provide assistance and information about missions. When the churches have current contact information, they can ask questions and have discussions about materials, projects, and their mission initiatives. The District Administrative Secretaries can help with dissemination of information. It is important for the District Mission Secretary to participate in the district structure as appropriate to strengthen the overall district mission emphasis. There is sometimes an opportunity to do workshops for local church mission chairs and others. There may be such an opportunity at a District Leadership Training event. The District Administrative Assistant can provide the contact information for the local church mission committee chairs.

The on-line Rainbow Covenant Notes at www.iaumc.org/rainbow can be helpful for workshops and other information dissemination opportunities. The major method of promotion of local, general, and conference mission is through encouragement of the use of the Rainbow Covenant program and ensuring that churches receive the appropriate certificate in recognition of their mission giving. The Rainbow Covenant report form is on-line at www.iaumc.org/rainbow and the person filling out the form may need assistance with obtaining or completion of the form. The completed reports are received and reviewed. The person who submitted the report is notified of the certificate to be received. Recommendations for appropriate changes for that report and/or future reports are made along with a reference to the on-line Rainbow Covenant Notes. The deadline for receiving reports is flexible depending on the reviewer's schedule and having the list of churches and appropriate certificates submitted to the District Administrative Secretary in adequate time for certificate preparation. Common practice is for the District Mission Secretary to be involved with handing out the certificates at the District Conference. The list of churches and certificates is also sent to the Conference Mission Secretary. A district sometimes has a volunteer that handles Rainbow Covenant reports, relieving the District Mission Secretary of this duty.

An important aspect of a mission program is support of GBGM missionaries. Missionaries with formal Iowa Conference ties, as listed in the Rainbow Covenant Book, itinerate in the conference periodically, and it is a responsibility of the District Mission Secretary to assist with itineration, making sure that Conference and GBGM policy is being followed. The basic system of GBGM missionary itineration in the Iowa Conference is based on the fact that the host church is responsible for meals and housing of the missionary. If the missionary is not driving, the churches also provide transportation from the previous church and/or to the next church. The usual means of housing is in family homes, giving the missionary a chance to know people better. It is also acceptable for a church to pay for motel rooms for missionaries, allowing them some time to themselves. Schedules are arranged in an efficient and geographically related manner to maximize their time and to cut expenses. Hotel stays at the request of a missionary when a home is available should be at the expense of the missionary. The host churches also try to line up meals and meetings to allow the missionaries to experience the greatest amount of good, Iowa United Methodist cooking as possible. Local churches' offerings received during missionary itineration should be sent to the Conference Treasurer, designated for Fund # 399 with the missionary's name. These offerings supplement the conference mission education fund to pay for the expenses of itinerating missionaries in Iowa. Money remaining after payment of missionary expenses will pass through to the missionaries advance special number. No money should be given directly to the missionary, as this only complicates their accounting procedures.

Current Conference Policy requires that most Conference Advance Special Projects Maintain at least two United Methodist members on its governing board, one of which is a member of the Conference Board of Global Ministries or one of its standing committees. The Mission Education Standing Committee is responsible for recruiting the required member if the project does not do so.

Regular Meeting Schedule

The Mission Education Standing Committee currently meets at the Conference Center from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. the second Saturday in March and the second Saturday in October of each year.

Additional Information:

Each district representative is a member of the Conference Commission in Ministry with Persons with Disabilities and is also a voting and resource member of the Church Building and Location Committee of his/her district, advocating for accessibility.

The Commission advocates for both laity and clergy in issues involving accessibility of church buildings, parsonages, camps, and other places where church activities are held, and full accessibility to all worship services, educational offerings, fellowship, and other activities of our churches. This includes accessibility of facilities, auditory and visual accessibility to all activities, accommodations for people with mental disabilities in all programs, and attitudinal hospitality.

In carrying out this mandate, the commission chooses to be pro-active rather than re-active. To this end we are currently involved in the following activities: developing materials for conducting accessibility audits for each church building and parsonage to be done with the trustees of each charge assisted by the district representatives on the commission on a five-year rotating schedule; providing seed money through a grant program for churches undertaking accessibility projects; and providing awareness activities and materials, such as an information booth at Iowa Annual Conference sessions, articles in Connect and district newsletters and on the Conference website, and workshops on particular issues.

- District: Voting and resource member of Building and Location Committee
Assist local churches to conduct Accessibility Audits
